1) TITLE

Document Summarization

2) AIM/OBJECTIVE

Document summarization is a strategy for assisting readers in quickly grasping the essential elements of a lengthy document. Some text mining applications, such as document categorization, benefit from it as a preprocessing step. This method can be categorized into two different dimensions – abstract-based and extract-based. An extract-based summary includes sentences that are extracted from the document. In contrast, an abstract-based summary may consist of terms and phrases which do not present in the original material.
